Cautious Fund

QUARTER END DECEMBER 2009

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The aim of the Cannon Cautious Fund is to provide protection to investors' capital as well as afford the potential to achieve moderate long-term capital growth. The fund is designed to be equally weighted amongst the four main asset classes; equities, bonds, property and cash, with an allowance for tactical asset allocation, as well as an allowance of up to 10 percent in alternative strategy investments. We believe that currency movements are inherently difficult to forecast. Thus, currency movements do not play a part in our investment decisions, and where possible we select Sterling based classes for the underlying investments. The Cannon Cautious Fund is Sterling denominated and is designed to generate a return ahead of JP Morgan's UK Bond Index measured in Sterling terms.

Over the course of the period under review, the Cannon Cautious Fund underwent some adjustments. Currently the fund holds 36 percent equities, 16 percent property, 20 percent bonds, 18 percent cash, and 10 percent Alternative Strategies. Given the strong performance of equities over the past six months, our overweight position has increased significantly, purely because of price movement. This position will be reviewed, along with all other asset classes.

INVESTMENT COMMENT

The extraordinarily abundant liquidity conditions experienced since 2008 has resulted in one of the strongest price rallies in recent market history, most prominent being corporate bonds, equities and real estate. This astonishing rally has been assisted by improvements in investor sentiment and economic data releases in the latter part of the year. However, there still are areas of concern and policymakers remain cautious, evidenced by their wariness of repeating Japan's mistake of the mid-1990s by withdrawing stimulus packages too early. That said, it is hard to see how saving failed firms, creating more debt to solve a debt crisis and shying away from structural reform can be a costless remedy. Regardless, policymakers' caution suggests that we can expect the liquid environment to remain in the near term.

Against this backdrop, our tactical asset allocation assisted the Cannon Cautious Fund in producing alpha of 2.1 percent over the quarter. The Cannon Cautious Fund returned 2.3 percent versus the benchmark's 0.2 percent in Sterling terms.

Despite the extent of the recent post-crisis rally, we remain positive on the outlook for equity and equity-centric asset classes, such as real estate. Although equity valuations now are closer to fair valuation than a year ago, we believe that, within the right regions there are attractive opportunities. Related to this, recently we took the decision to increase the fund's exposure to real estate. Within bonds, we have favoured corporate bonds over other bond classes. However, spreads have recently narrowed and sovereign bond yields are unattractive. Thus we remain underweight bonds.

MULTIMANAGER INVESTING

Diversification of risk is an important objective for most investors in today's volatile markets. Investment risk can be reduced by holding a diversified portfolio of assets which cover the world's major economies, industries and investment themes. In reality, a sufficiently diversified portfolio requires a significant capital sum and it can be time consuming and expensive to manage when transaction and custody charges are taken into account. Whilst managed funds might help this dilemma by solving the problem of choosing individual investments, they do not necessarily solve the question of which markets to select and which fund managers to use. Cannon Capital Advisors can provide a solution to these concerns. It combines the investment expertise of leading fund management groups which ensures that the Fund is invested in markets where managers have proven strengths. An important feature of this process is the independent approach taken when selecting funds. This approach recognises the fact that no one investment house performs well in all markets or asset types and it is therefore necessary to select managers based on their individual strengths.
